

Questions re. DOT permitted ATV road crossings:

There are two DOT-permitted ATV crossings in Colebrook:

#1: 145 Merrill St. and Lombard St., shown by red balloon with black dot inside.

The ATV map to the left shows four possible crossings. Route 3 curves in and out on the west side of the map. Please confirm that only the Hughes Rd. crossing shown on the west half of the map is permitted by DOT, and that Routes 3, 26, and 145 are State roads at the crossing locations shown.

Please confirm that the ATV crossing by Diamond Peaks Motel and Country Store is the permitted crossing described by DOT as NH 26, 26 Josie Rd.:

The crossing in Colebrook shown below is in use by ATVs. Please confirm that this is not a location permitted by DOT.

DOT's list of ATV-permitted crossings lists one crossing in Berlin, .456 miles east of the Milan town line on NH-110. This appears to be the faintly marked Nansen Wayside where no ATV crossing is shown. DOT's list does not include two crossings on Route 110, northwest of Berlin, the crossing in Berlin, which may be a bridge, or the Presidential Rail Trail crossing at the bottom of the map, which may also be a bridge or underpass. The list also does not include a crossing on 110-B in Milan. Please confirm that none of the five crossings circled on the map below are permitted by DOT, and if Routes 16 and 110, at the locations crossed, are State roads.

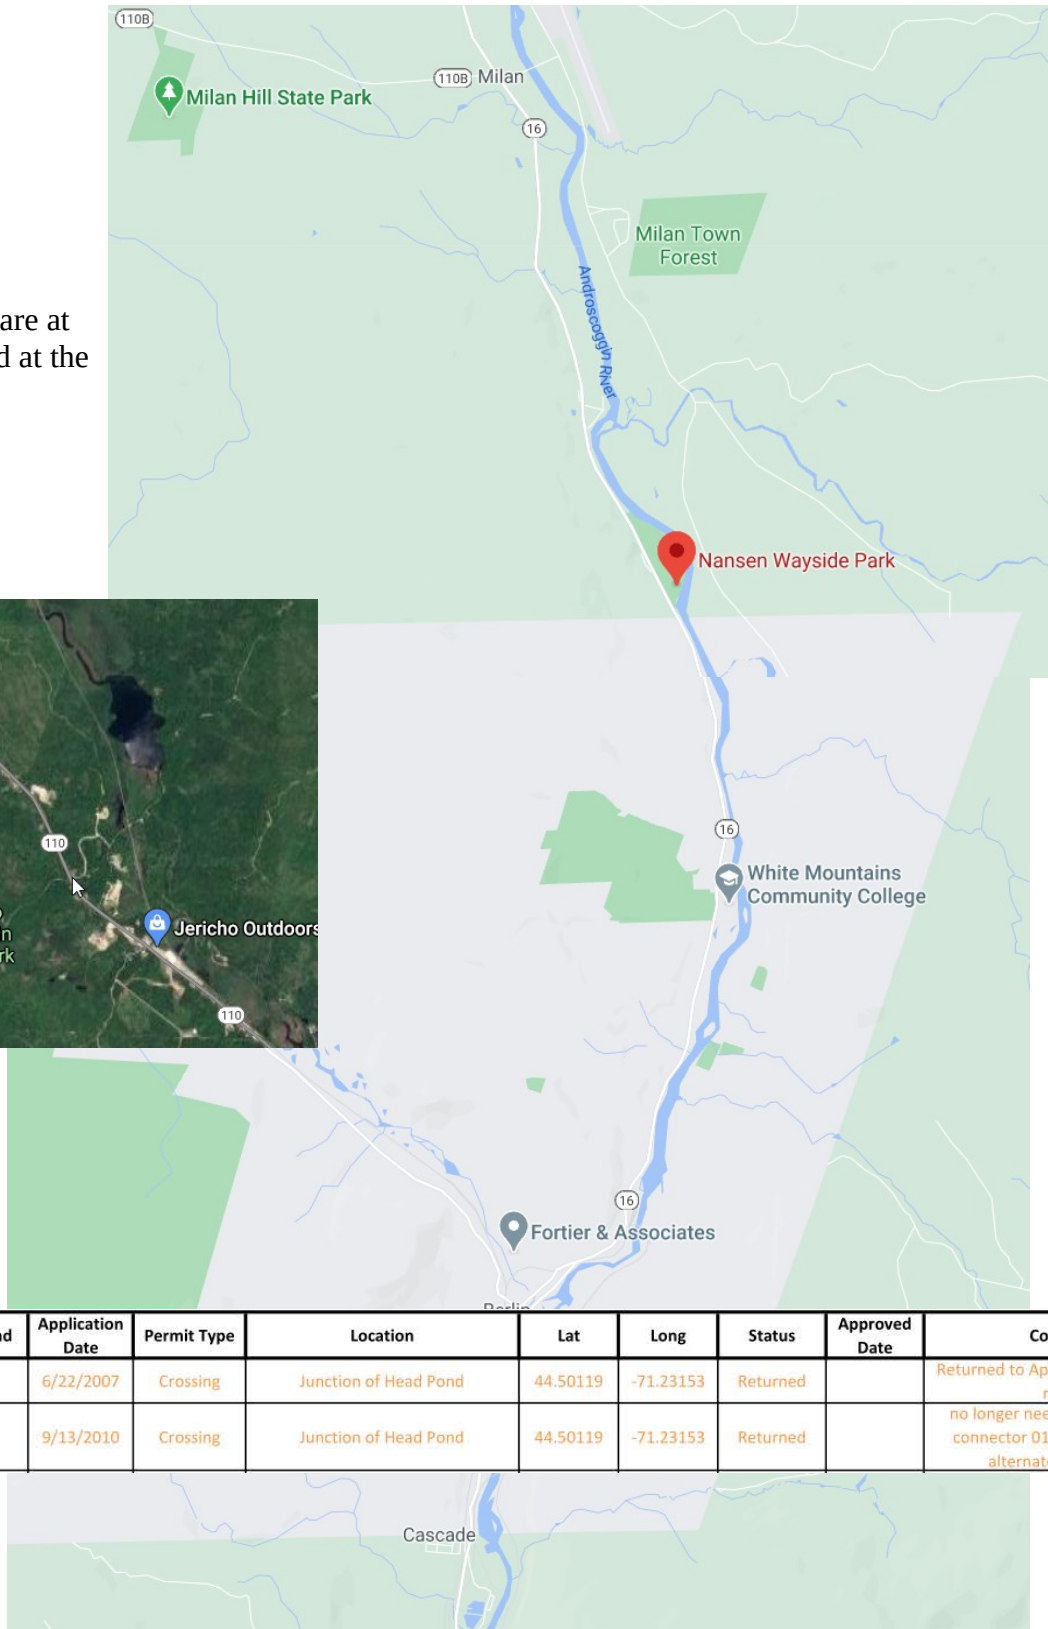

The Nansen Wayside Park is just north of the Milan-Berlin boundary.

ATV trail crossings are at the cursor below and at the M in W. Milan Rd., on Route 110.

Are the crossings below the ones shown on the Google Earth section above?

Gorham ATV Presidential Rail Trail crossing of Route 116 at cursor. Rail Trail is a faint grey line running north and east of the Androscoggin River. This is a bridge. Does DOT need to permit bridges associated with Rail Trails?

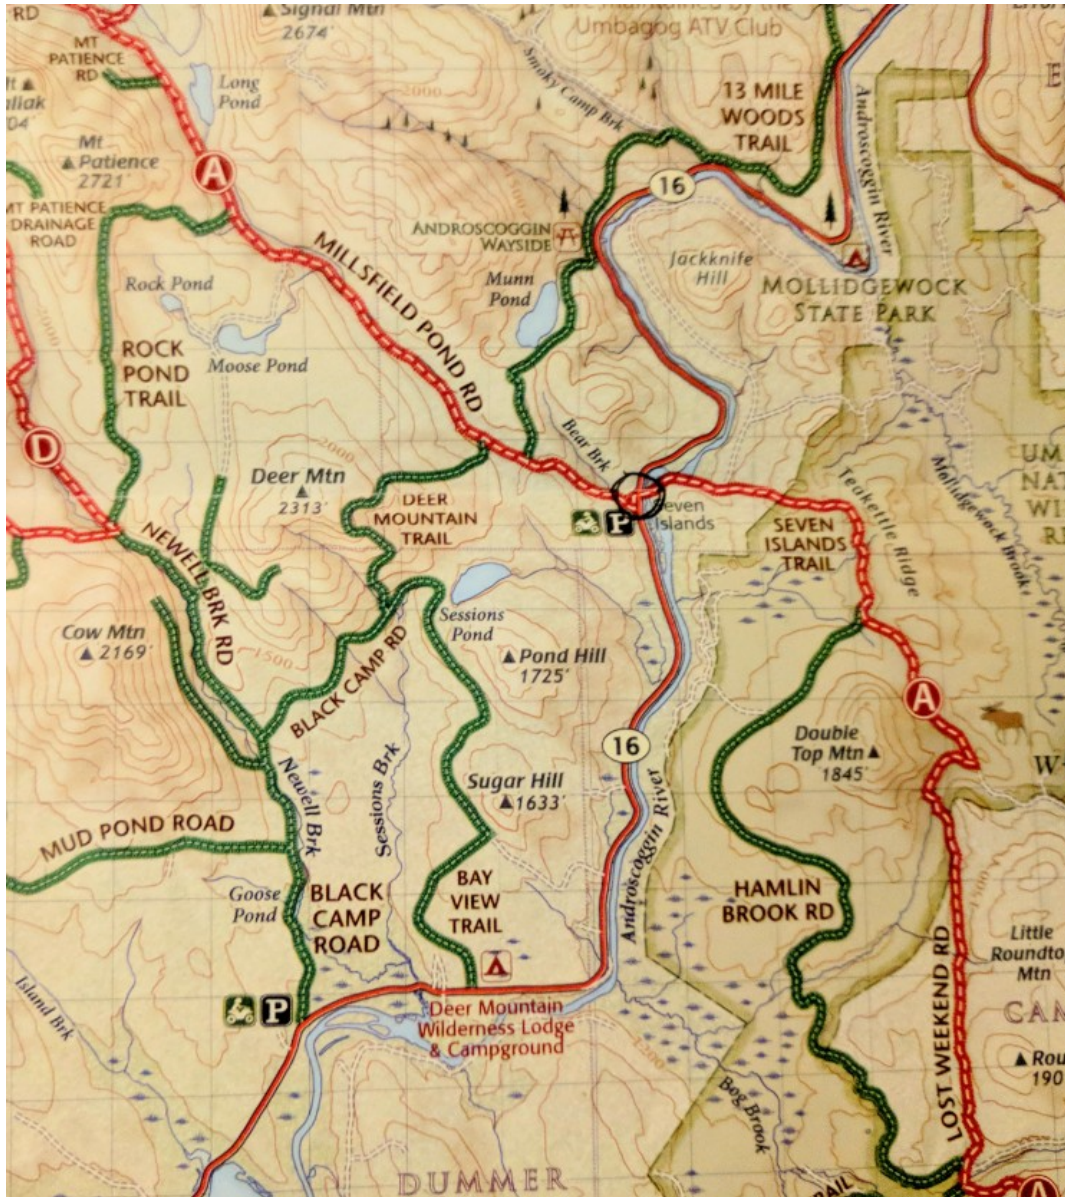

DOT lists two ATV permitted crossings of Route 3 in Pittsburg; Fern Drive, and Spooner Road near Buck Rub. Cursor shows Spooner Rd.

ATV map shows four ATV trail crossings of Route 3: The two center ones appear to be the ones permitted by DOT. The northernmost one at Danforth Road, and the Corridor A crossing just east of Pittsburg, appear to be un-permitted. Please confirm that these are road crossing requiring permits from DOT which have not been issued.
